A copy of this report will be made available upon request. The disabled population will comprise of clients who need job placement and retention services.

The intake and assessment session between the client and Provider will help the Provider to identify the strengths and weaknesses of the client and assess the client's basic skills and aptitudes. The information obtained from the intake and assessment will be used to formulate the Individual Placement Plan, which outlines the services to be provided to the client.

2. Individualized Placement Plan Development

Discussion and planning shall take place with the client, Provider, family members, or others supporting the client's vocational goals. The client's goals, needs, and abilities are taken into consideration when formulating the Individualized Placement Plan.

3. Employment Preparation Services

Interested applicants should carefully describe all proposed services requested below. The proposed program shall offer individualized employment preparation services for clients with different needs. Services shall be designed to enable the client to acquire the knowledge, skills, habits, and attitudes essential to obtaining and maintaining employment. Services shall include meetings with an assigned counselor and group sessions on a variety of topics. The employment preparation services will depend on the needs of the client.

a. Job Readiness Sessions

Job readiness sessions shall focus on different components depending on the limitations of the clients. For example, services for some clients may focus on areas such as grooming, dressing, interpersonal skills, money management, and independent living skills, etc. Whereas, job readiness sessions for the work ready would focus on job search skills and attitudes required for employment. The purpose of this job readiness training is not only to develop the client's knowledge, skills, habits and attitude to be job ready, but also to assist clients in understanding work rules and an ability to adhere to work rules. Job readiness sessions are an integral part of the successful placement of an individual in a work environment.

b. Coaching, supervision and training

Pre-employment services might include coaching the client in areas such as self-esteem, attitudes at work, communication, behavior management, etc. Supervision might be on-going for some clients as social interaction and role playing in a work situation are explored. Training shall be provided on various independent living skills, such as money management, transportation, etc. which would support successful employment.

c. Group and Individual meetings

Group job readiness training would be designed for the work ready employee. These meetings would cover topics such as career awareness and exploration, dependability, self presentation, job search, resumes, motivation, positive attitude, work ethics and interviewing skills.

Clients would also work with the Provider individually to develop their job readiness. Specific needs are identified in the Individual Placement Plan. Examples of training areas include but are not limited to: self-esteem and self-image, interpersonal skills, conflict resolution, interviewing skills, etc. The counselor would also assist the client in preparing resumes, with completing applications, and by conducting job interviews.

4. Job Development

The Provider shall assist the client in job search and locating a job opening that suits the client's needs, interests and abilities. Assistance includes, but is not limited to, contacting employers by letter and/or on the telephone, canvassing and visiting employers.

5. Job Placement and Retention

The job placement goal for the client shall be appropriate employment of thirty-two hours (32) a week. In the early stages, the client may have to engage in unpaid volunteer activity and/or paid employment to maximize participation. Clients will be eligible for release when they work an average of thirty-two hours a week for a sixty-day period. Recognizing the disabilities of the clients, a minimum 60-day job retention follow-up will begin to help participants successfully maintain and retain their job. Job analysis and job accommodation negotiations may be needed. Additional services may include helping the clients develop natural support systems that may consist of the employer, co-workers, family, or others involved with the client. Job coaching is available to ensure the client learns job duties and appropriate behavior for the specific setting. Scheduled visits to the job site to monitor the work progress should be a part of the post-employment phase. When problems arise, the Provider should provide necessary interventions to resolve the problems.

After the 60-day job retention follow-up period is over and the Provider determines the client is no longer in need of further rehabilitative services, the client shall be referred back to the Department.

Cases in the job retention phase shall require less activity and monitoring on the part of the Provider and shall not be considered part of the caseload requirement. A limited number of clients may require job retention services beyond the 60-day period determined by the Provider.

6. On-going Case Management
Case management shall be on-going from assessment through post-employment progress.
7. Support Services and Participation Reimbursement

The Provider shall use the HANA system to issue support service payments to eligible clients. The support services shall include, but are not limited to, child care, transportation, training and work-related expenses, and assistive technology. The supportive services payments are not part of the appropriation for vocational rehabilitation services contract. The Department has allocated $50,000.00 per year for the purchase of assistive technology for eligible clients. Any purchase of assistive technology exceeding $500.00 shall require division administrative review and prior approval.

8. Provider Performance Bonus

Successful placement of a client in unsubsidized employment of 32 hours a week and the client retains the employment at 32 hours a week for the period as described in Section III (A) (5) shall be eligible for a one-time payment of $1,000.00 per client placement.

Successful placement of a client in unsubsidized employment of 20 hours a week and the client retains the employment at 20 hours a week for the period described in Section III (A) (5) shall be eligible for a one-time payment of $500.00 per client placement.

The total payments for this Provider Performance Bonus shall not exceed $25,000.00 for a single contract per state fiscal year (July 1 through June 30). For multiple contracts, the total payment for Provider Performance Bonuses shall not exceed the amounts stated in Section 2, I-E.

The caseload standard for each counselor will be 50 clients per month once the case has an Individualized Placement Plan in place.

The Provider may opt to use their existing staff to dispense their obligations under the contract. However, they must prorate the work time of the staff in accordance with the total time spent on the work/activities required under this Agreement.

The Provider must prorate the time of the staff if their caseload falls below the maximum staff is required to carry. For example, a staff member is hired full-time to carry a caseload of 50 cases but is carrying only 20 cases, the Provider must prorate their work time and wages in accord with the decrease in the caseload. In this scenario, the Provider would pay for half-time work and wages.

Also note that applicants may propose an alternative plan of hiring staff to suit their proposed model of service delivery.
